TWO MARRIAGE EVES

"I have often told you," said James Mayfield to me the evening before my marriage with his daughter Kate, "that I owed my prosperity—or more accurately my escape from destruction—to an accident, a chance, a miracle. Stand up and look at that piece of paper let into the overmantel. Have you ever observed it before?"

"Yes," I said, rising and examining a faded document under a glass panel in the oak. "I have now and then noticed it, but have never been able to make out what it is."

"What do you take it for?"

"Well, it looks like half a sheet of business note paper covered with indistinct figures that do not seem ordinary."

"Yes," he said, gazing with half closed eyes at the paper through the smoke of his cigar. "They are not ordinary, nor is their history."

"It is not possible to make them out, they are so blurred and faint. Are they very old?"

"Twenty years. They are much faded since I first saw them," said he, crossing his legs. "Now you may as well know the history of that half sheet of business paper and what it has to do with me and your Kate's mother. Sit down and I will tell it to you."

I dropped back into my chair.

"Our Kate is nearly nineteen, as no doubt you are aware. It is the night before your marriage. You, thank heaven! run no such risk as I ran the night before my marriage. There is no date on that blurred copy of figures, but if there were you would find it originated on the night before I was to be married, twenty years ago. You are short of thirty now. I was short of thirty then. You are now in what I should then have considered affluent circumstances. I am going to give you tomorrow our only child and a fourth share in the business of Strangway, Mayfield & Co., of which I am the sole surviving partner, and that fourth share ought to bring you a thousand to twelve hundred a year. The night that document over the chimney came into existence I was accountant to Strangway & Co. at a salary of £150 per annum."

My father in law paused and knocked the ash off his cigar.

"At that time," he went on, resuming his story, "the business of Strangway & Co. was in Bread street. We had warehouses on the ground floor and in the cellars, the offices were on the first floor and warehouses filled from over the first floor to the slates.

"The offices closed at 6, but as I was anxious to get everything in the finest order before starting on my honeymoon, I wasn't able to leave at that hour. In addition to the bookkeeping I did most of the writing correspondence, and I had some letters to write. When they were finished I should lock up the place, put the keys in my pocket, leave them at Mr Strangway's house on Clapham common and go on to my lodgings in Wandsworth and from my lodgings to my sweetheart Mary's home in Wandsworth.

"As I was working away, writing letters at the top of my speed and quite alone in the office—in the whole house—Stephen Grainly, one of our travelers, rang the bell and, much to my surprise and annoyance, when I opened the front door walked up stairs following my lead through the unlighted passages. I never cared for Stephen Grainly; no one in the office liked him except Mr Strangway himself. Grainly was an excellent man at his work, but to my taste too smooth and good—too sweet to be sound.

"'What, Mayfield,' he cried, 'working away still! Why, when I saw the light I made sure it must be Broadwood (our assistant accountant, who was to take my place while I was away), and as I had a goodish lot of money I thought I'd better bank here than in my own home in Hoxton. I am not satisfied it is safe to stow £300 in cash in my humble home.'

"'All right,' said I, 'but I wish you had come earlier. The safest place to bank money in is the bank.' He did not know I was going to be married next day, and I was glad of it, for the man always made me feel uncomfortable, and I did not wish him to touch my little romance even with a word.

"'Be here at 4 o'clock?' he cried. 'My dear fellow, I couldn't do it. How could I? Why I didn't get to King's Cross until a quarter to 6! Here you are.' He produced his pocketbook. 'You needn't give me more than two minutes. Checks, two hundred and seventy four, eighteen, six. Notes, two hundred and forty five. Gold, forty-eight.'

"As you may fancy, I was in a hurry to get rid of him. He seemed in no hurry to go. He sat down, pulled out his handkerchief and began wiping his forehead, although it was October, and he was quite warm.

"'You will initial my book,' said he, and he handed me his order book, part of which was ruled in money columns, where he had a list of the money he had collected. The whole was £567 18s. 6d., and for this I signed.

"'Have you taken the numbers of the notes?' I asked.

"'No,' said he.

"I made a list myself of the numbers on a sheet of paper, and pushed checks, notes and gold up to the flat, middle part of my desk. I did not want to take out any of the account books that night, and when I had finished the letters and he was gone I should put the money in the safe in the back room. The memorandum of the numbers I should leave with the keys at Clapham, and the whole transaction would be dealt with by my assistant, Broadwood, in the morning.

"Making out the list had taken a little time, as the notes were all small and no two in a sequence; they had been collected for minor accounts in the country.

"I put my list of notes on the desk beside me and went on with my letters, several of which were now ready for the copying press.

"That evening Grainly talked a lot about the business and the news of the day and all sorts of things. I could not tell him to go away, for he could see I was not myself leaving yet, and copying the letters, putting them to dry, inclosing them in envelopes and addressing them was not occupation for which a man could reasonably claim quiet.

"When my batch of letters were ready, seeing half an hour's work still before me, I held them out to him and said, 'When you are going I should be obliged if you would post these, as I am not nearly finished here yet.'

"'Certainly,' said he, taking the hint and rising.

"'Any one in the place who could show me out? All the gas is turned off below and I have never gone down in the darkness,' said he, moving away.

"'There's no one but ourselves here. I'll show you the way,' I said with alacrity, delighted to get rid of him.

"I had led him through the long, dark corridor and half down the stairs when he suddenly stopped and cried out: 'My stick! I left my stick above. I won't be a minute, Mayfield. Just wait here for me!'

"He ran up stairs to fetch his stick and was back with me in the darkness in a few seconds.

"'I found it all right,' he said, 'it was just at the door. I got it without going in at all.'

"I struck a match to light him, and presently he was out on the asphalt of Bread street, walking rapidly toward Cheapside.

"When I got back to the counting house the checks were on the flat top of the desk. The gold and notes were gone!

"I had taken the numbers of the notes on a sheet of paper, and left the list on the sloping part of my desk to dry before putting it into my pocket.

"The paper on which I had taken the numbers of the notes was gone also!"

As my father-in-law spoke I rose to my feet and tapped the glass over the document let into the oak above the fireplace, saying, "And this is the paper with the numbers of the stolen notes on it."

"And that is not the paper with the numbers of the stolen notes on it," said James Mayfield.

"From the moment I left the counting house to show Grainly out that night, twenty years ago, no one has ever seen the list I made of the notes. Grainly must have destroyed it the moment he was out of Bread street."

My father in law finished his glass of port and resumed his story.

"Here was I, on the eve of my marriage, simply ruined.

"Grainly had my receipt for the £293 cash, and he had the £293 cash also, and Grainly was a thief who enjoyed the favor of his employer, while I was in no particular favor with the firm. I believe up to that time I was supposed to be honest.

"The £48 in gold was of course gone as much as if it had been dropped into the crater of a burning mountain, and as the numbers of the notes could no longer be produced and they had not come direct from a bank, but had been picked up here and there in the country, the £245 were gone as though they had been blown overboard in the Atlantic ocean.

"It was plain there would be no use in following Grainly, even if I knew the way he had gone when he gained Cheapside. It was plain no marriage could take place tomorrow morning. It was plain my course was to go without the loss of a moment to Mr Strangway and tell him what had happened. Whether he would believe me or not who could say? Not I anyway. He might reasonably order me into custody. Very well, if he did I must not grumble or feel aggrieved. Our wedding was fixed for 11 o'clock next morning. By 11 tomorrow I might be in jail, charged with stealing the money or being an accomplice in the robbery.

"I locked the office, telegraphed to Mary that I had been unexpectedly delayed, jumped into a hansom and drove to Strangway's house in Clapham.

"I told the servant to take in word that I wished to see Mr Strangway most particularly. I suppose she had heard about my wedding; anyway she smiled very knowingly and said: 'I hope you'll have fine weather and good luck on your holiday, Mr Mayfield, though it is rather late in the year to expect fine weather. Gracious, Mr Mayfield, are you ill?' she cried at the end. I dare say my face told tales.

"'Not ill,' I said, 'but very anxious to see Mr Strangway at once, if you please.'

"She showed me into the library, hurried off, and in a few seconds Mr Strangway entered smiling. He no doubt thought my anxiety to see him was connected with my marriage.

"When he heard my story he was grave enough. 'Two hundred and ninety three gone!' said he, frowning.

"'Gone,' said I.

"'And the numbers of the notes gone with the money?' said he, looking me full in the face, with a heavier frown.

"'Not a trace left of the paper on which I took the numbers.'

"'Are you sure no one but Grainly could have entered the counting house?'

"'Perfectly sure. All the doors communicating with other parts of the house were shut—had been locked for the night. I had not been outside the counting house since luncheon.'

"For a few moments he reflected. 'The awkward part of it, Mayfield,' said he, 'is that you are to be married tomorrow. Of course your marriage must go on. But I'll tell you what I think would be best for you. Suppose you attend the office as usual tomorrow morning; you could leave for a couple of hours later, get the ceremony over and come back.'

"'Oh!' I said, 'with this hanging over me? I half expected to be locked up tonight. But I could not get married until the money is found, Mr Strangway.'

"'Found! Found! The money can never be found. Why, we have nothing to go on! Anyway I shall not take steps tonight. Perhaps it would be best to postpone your marriage. Yes, it would not do to marry under the circumstances. I am very sorry for you. But all that can be done in the interests of justice must be done. Keep the keys and be in Bread street at the ordinary time in the morning.'"

My father paused here. His cigar was smoked out, but he had not finished his story. He did not offer to move and I sat still. After a few moments he went on:

"I will be merciful to you and tell you nothing of the scene at my wife's place when I called later. Her father and mother were then living. I told my story to all three as I have told it to you, and all agreed that the best thing was to postpone the marriage for a month.

"Well, I'm not getting on as fast as I promised, but I shall not keep you much longer.

"When I reached the office in the morning I had another good look around, but nothing whatever was to be discovered. I turned the whole place inside out. Nothing, absolutely nothing, connected with the case turned up until, to my astonishment, Stephen Grainly walked into the office. Until his appearance I had, in a dim way, made up my mind that all would be cleared up and my innocence established by his absconding. His arrival showed that he meant to brazen the thing out with me, and I felt from that moment helpless and paralyzed.

"'Grainly,' said I, as soon as I could talk, 'when you came back for your stick last night did you notice the money you gave me on the desk where I put it?'

"'No, my dear Mayfield. I did not cross the threshold of this room.'

"'You did not see or touch the money or the piece of paper on which I had taken down the numbers of the notes?'

"'No, certainly not. I could not see your desk from the door, and I was not farther than the door. You do not seem well. I sincerely hope there is nothing the matter?'

"'The cash you brought in last night—the £293—has been stolen, that's all,' said I.

"'Stolen!' he cried, falling back. 'You don't mean to say that?'

"'Aye, and stolen within an hour—within half an hour—of our being here together last night.'

"'I cannot—I will not—believe such a horrible thing. Stolen! And in the very office too!'

"I never saw better acting in all my life than his indignation and horror and astonishment. I could hardly believe my eyes and ears. I had spent a sleepless night and was half dazed and wholly stupid and in despair. For awhile I felt that, after all, he might be innocent, and that I, in a moment of excitement and haste, had placed the money and the memorandum in some place of security which I could not now recall.

"Mr. Strangway, on reaching the office half an hour earlier than his usual time, gave orders for another search. It was quite unavailing. No tale or tidings of the cash came that day.

"No secret was made of the affair in the office, and as the hours went on I became confident that in Mr. Strangway's eyes I was the criminal. I don't know how it happened, but I did not feel this much. I did not feel anything much. I was in a dream—a stupor.

"Late in the afternoon Mr. Strangway called me into his office and told me that, considering everything, he did not intend placing the affair in the hands of the police that day, but that if tomorrow's sun went down upon matters as they now stood he should be obliged to take action. 'The loss of the money I could bear,' said he, 'but the ingratitude I will not stand.'

"This was as good as accusing me of the robbery. Again I wonder that I was not more put out, but I felt little or nothing beyond hapless and numbed.

"Before I left Bread street that evening Grainly sent me a note begging me, for my own sake, not to think of bolting. 'Bolting,' said he, 'in a case of this kind would be taken as an admission of the very worst.'

"Even this daring impudence did not arouse me, did not waken me, through the whole terrible affair. I do not think I was even as much excited as I am now.

"Next day Mr Strangway said not a syllable about employing the police, or indeed about the affair at all, nor did he, as far as I knew, take steps in the matter. On the day following he made an astonishing announcement. He called Grainly and me into his private office and said:

"'The present is the first time in the history of our firm that anything of this kind has occurred—that we have been robbed from the inside. I have made up my mind not to do anything about it just now. I keep an open mind. Some day we may find an easy explanation of the mystery or it may never be cleared up. I accuse no one. I will say no more of the affair until I can either put my hand on the man who did it or tell you both face to face, as you are now, that I have discharged from my mind forever the notion that any man who takes my money as a servant took it also as a thief.'

"A fortnight after the loss of the money a telegram came for Mr Strangway. It was sent into his private office. Presently he opened his door and beckoned me to come in, and when I had entered he motioned me to a chair.

"'Mr. Mayfield,' said he, 'I wish at the earliest moment to relieve you of what must have been a terrible anxiety. The thief has been found and is now in custody!' Mr Strangway waved the telegram. 'I have just got the message saying Stephen Grainly, with the bulk of the notes on his person, is in the hands of the police. He was about leaving this country—for Spain, it is supposed. He stole the money a fortnight ago, and stole the list you had made of the numbers of the notes. Knowing the way in which the notes had come into his own hands in the country, he felt confident they could not be traced from their source to him, and of course they could not be traced from him to the Bank of England, as the list of the numbers was destroyed by him.'

"'Then how in the world, sir, were they traced?' said I.

"Mr Strangway raised the blotting pad and took from under it a piece of paper, the back of a letter.

"'The news of the robbery got about,' said he, 'and of course our customers were interested in it. Mr Young, of Horsham, among the rest. Mr Young, of Horsham, was one of the people you wrote to that evening, the evening of the robbery, and you sent him more than you intended.'

"'Not the missing sheet with the numbers? I know I couldn't have done that, for I saw the memorandum on the slope of my desk after closing his letter and handing it with the others to Grainly.'

"'No, but you put the memorandum on the slope of your desk with the ink side up, and you copied Mr Young's letter in the copying press and while it was damp put it down on the list of notes in unblotted copying ink, and the numbers of the notes were faintly but clearly copied, reversed of course, on the fly leaf of Young's letter, and Mr Young sent the copy back to me privately. Look.'

"Mr Strangway handed me the fly leaf of Young's letter, and there were the numbers of the notes, dim to be sure, but not quite so dim there as they are now under the glass let into the oak of the over mantel. Grainly had put a few of the notes in circulation and they had been traced back to him.

"'He stole the money, Mayfield,' said Mr Strangway to me, 'and he tried to ruin you, or anyway he wanted to saddle you with the theft, and for awhile I more than suspected you. But all is clear at last, and I'll pay you handsomely one day for suspecting you.'

"And so he did," said my father-in-law. "He lent me the money to buy a partnership in the firm, and I am the firm all to myself now, and shall be until the new partner comes in tomorrow."

He rose and shook me by the hand and tapped me on the shoulder, saying, "Your partner for life will be wondering what has kept you. Run away to Kate now, my boy."—Strand Magazine.

An Argument for Protection.

When Roger Q. Mills complains because protection keeps $200,000,000 in foreign products out of this country every year he really makes the strongest possible argument for the protective policy, because that fact means that under that policy the amount of money named is kept in the country every year and spent among our own people, instead of being sent abroad to enrich foreigners, as it would be under the Democratic free trade policy.—Springfield (Ills.) State Journal.

Well, Scarcely.

It is safe to predict that the career of the first session of the Fifty-second congress will not be a theme which the Democratic stump speakers will dwell upon when they make their appeals to the voters.—Portland (Me.) Daily Press.

GENERAL REEDER'S INSTRUCTIONS ON THE BALLOT LAW

An Important Communication to Republicans of Pennsylvania.

A WARNING ABOUT THE TICKET.

Concise Explanation of How to Vote on the New Ballot System.

What Is Done by the Voter, the Election Officers, Watchers and Others Who Have to Do with the Election from the Time a Citizen Presents Himself at the Polls to Vote Until the Ballots Are Counted and the Result Is Announced.

Chairman Frank Reeder, of the Republican state committee, has issued from the party headquarters in Philadelphia, a book of "instructions to voters under the new ballot law, together with a statement of their qualifications and duties."

"In issuing these instructions regarding the new election law," said General Reeder, in commenting on what is being done to enlighten citizens on the new method of voting, "we had a full realization of the difficulty in comprehending the new system of elections, that must necessarily be experienced by citizens who have not had an opportunity to thoroughly study the law. We have tried to make our digest concise and comprehensive. I believe a close reading of the instructions will make clear all the requirements of the law that directly concern the voter on election day. There have been so many digests and explanations of the law issued from various sources that Republicans will do well to follow these instructions to avoid confusion, and, possibly, trouble after the election."

Chairman Reeder's Warning.

"There is a matter to which I desire to call special attention. It relates to the preparation and printing of the ballot by the county commissioners. There have been sent out from the office of the secretary of the commonwealth to every county in the state specimen ballots, prepared in accordance with the form that would be issued to voters in the first legislative district in the city of Philadelphia. This is apt to lead to mistakes in the printing of tickets for counties other than Philadelphia, where a different form must be followed.

"In Philadelphia, the candidates for different county offices are nominated in separate conventions. Therefore, in Philadelphia there must be a separate group on the official ballot for each county officer to be voted for, and a cross mark must be made on the ballot for each county office.

"In other parts of the state, where nominations for more than one county office are made in one convention, all such nominations are included in one distinct group on the official ballot. The party name is placed at the head of the group. A cross mark put opposite the word "Republican," which is placed over this group of county nominations, would mean that the voter desired to cast his ballot for all the Republican nominees on such county ticket.

A Sample Republican Ballot.

"I have had prepared a sample ballot which is being issued from the Republican state committee headquarters to the county chairmen and others for the instruction of voters. At the head of the ballot I have had printed these words:

"TO VOTE THE STRAIGHT REPUBLICAN TICKET PUT A CROSS (X) IN THE SQUARE TO THE RIGHT OF THE WORD 'REPUBLICAN' WHENEVER IT OCCURS IN THE FIRST COLUMN—in other words, as many crosses as there are groups in the Republican column—the word "Republican," as often as it may occur, indicating the beginning of a distinct Republican group. The only difficulties in the use of the new ballot being those which arise from an attempt to vote a mixed or "scratched" ticket, Republican voters are cautioned against voting any but a straight ticket (except for good cause, and then only after careful instructions), as to do so is attended with danger that the entire ballot may be invalidated."

For the convenience of all who will have to do with elections, General Reeder has had his comprehensive little digest divided into seven chapters, entitled as follows:

"When Elections to be Held," "Qualifications of Voters," "Manner of Voting," "Inside of Guard Rail," "Inside the Voting Shelf or Compartment," "Preparation of Ballot" and "Penal Offenses."

Here are the chapters in the order given:

I.

ELECTIONS.

Showing When General and Local Elections Shall be Held.

a. GENERAL ELECTIONS.
Tuesday next following first Monday of November.

b. LOCAL ELECTIONS.
On the third Tuesday of February, and for special purposes may be ordered by the governor and the courts on other days.

c. POLLS.
To be opened at 7 o'clock a. m. and closed at 7 o'clock p. m.

II.

QUALIFICATIONS OF VOTERS.

Those Who Can and Those Who Cannot Vote Under the New Law.

All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the States wherein they reside.

Every male citizen twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections:

a. He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month.

b. He shall have resided in the state one year (or if having previously been a qualified elector or native-born citizen of the state he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months), immediately preceding the election.

c. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election. A minor becomes of age on the day prior to the twenty-first anniversary of his birth.

d. If twenty-two years of age, or upwards, he shall have paid, within two years, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months and paid at least one month before the election.

e. If the name of the voter is not upon the registry list he cannot vote unless he make proof of his right to vote, as heretofore required by law.

f. The law relating to right of challenge and to proof of right to vote remains as heretofore. Challenge should be made before the person offering to vote receives his ballot, but may be made at any time before he casts it.

g. Naturalization certificates issued by the courts must be produced to the board and are conclusive if genuine.

h. The voter is disqualified if he has agreed to receive or receives any valuable consideration for his vote, or has a wager or bet pending on the election, or has been convicted of a willful violation of the election laws, or has promised to give any voter a valuable consideration for voting or withholding his vote.

III.

MANNER OF VOTING.

The Citizen Presents Himself, Claiming the Right to Vote.

Besides the election officers and supervisors authorized by the laws of the United States, or overseers appointed by the courts of this commonwealth, not more than FOUR voters in excess of the number of voting shelves or compartments shall be allowed inside of the enclosed space at one time and not more than TEN outside that space.

Specimen ballots and cards of instruction can be obtained from the election officers upon request.

The person desiring to vote will

a. Enter the room and remain outside the chain or guard rail. When his turn arrives he shall first give his name and residence to one of the election officers in charge of the ballots.

b. The officer will thereupon announce the name in a loud and distinct tone of voice.

c. If the voter's name is upon the BALLOT CHECK LIST, the inspector or clerk in charge of the said list will repeat the name.

d. The voter will then enter the space inclosed by the guard rail, unless his right to vote be challenged.

e. If challenged by a qualified citizen he shall remain outside the guard rail until his right to vote is determined, but he may be challenged any time before the vote is cast. It is recommended, however, that challenges be made before the voter enters the guard rail, or before he receives his ballot. His right to vote shall be established in the manner heretofore provided by law.

f. If his right to vote be established his name will be entered upon the voting and check lists.

IV.

INSIDE THE GUARD RAIL.

How the Ballots are Given to the Voters.

The voter having the right to vote will enter within the guard rail.

a. The election officer having charge of the ballots shall detach one from the stub and give it to the voter.

b. The said officer shall first fold it so that the words printed on the back and outside of the ballot shall be the only words visible, AND IT CANNOT BE VOTED UNLESS SO FOLDED.

c. Only ONE BALLOT shall be given to a voter unless he inadvertently spoils it, when he may obtain another upon returning the spoiled one.

d. Upon his receiving the ballot the check list shall be marked by election officers, and the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the space enclosed by guard rail, retire to one of the VOTING SHELVES OR COMPARTMENTS.

e. Only OFFICIAL BALLOTS can be voted, and any ballot other than a sample ballot, appearing to have been obtained otherwise than provided by the Act, shall be sent to the District Attorney for his official action.

V.

INSIDE THE VOTING SHELF.

Regulations Regarding the Compartment in Which the Ballot Is Marked.

The voter upon entering the voting shelf or compartment, must prepare his ballot.

a. To assist him in preparing his OFFICIAL ballot he may mark a SAMPLE BALLOT before going to vote and take it with him into the voting compartment to copy from in preparing his official ballot. He must vote the OFFICIAL BALLOT ONLY.

b. Cards of instruction will be posted in each voting compartment or shelf.

c. No voter will be allowed to occupy a voting shelf or compartment already occupied by another, except when giving the help allowed in the preparation of his ticket, nor to remain in such compartment more than THREE MINUTES if all the compartments are in use and other voters are waiting to vote.

d. If any voter declares to the judge of election that he desires assistance in the preparation of his ballot, by reason of disability, he shall be permitted by the judge of election to select a qualified voter of the election district to aid him in the preparation of his ballot, such preparation being made in the voting compartment. THERE IS NO PROVISION IN THE LAW WHICH REQUIRES THE VOTER TO DEFINE HIS DISABILITY, OR WHICH GIVES THE JUDGE OF ELECTION ANY DISCRETION TO REFUSE TO COMPLY WITH THE REQUEST FOR ASSISTANCE, made because of alleged "disability."

e. A voter who shall, except as above stated, allow his ballot to be seen with an APPARENT INTENTION of letting it be known how he is about to vote, or shall WILFULLY violate any provision of the act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

f. No person within the election room shall electioneer or solicit votes, or shall interfere with any voter when inside said enclosed space, or when marking his ballot, or endeavor to induce any voter BEFORE depositing the ballot to show how he marks his ballot.

VI.

PREPARATION OF BALLOT.

Explicit and Important Directions for Marking the Ticket.

a. If the voter desires to vote the STRAIGHT PARTY TICKET, or in other words, for ALL the candidates on the Republican ticket, he can do so by making a cross mark, thus X, in the square or margin OPPOSITE and to the RIGHT of the word REPUBLICAN at the head or top of each Republican group. This single mark or cross will be equivalent to a cross mark against every name in such Republican group, and will be counted as one vote for EACH Republican candidate named. EACH GROUP IN THE REPUBLICAN COLUMN MUST BE SIMILARLY MARKED WITH A CROSS.

b. This year (1892) there will be the following groups in the Republican ticket, to wit: 1. State ticket, embracing candidate for Supreme Court Judge, two candidates for Congressmen at Large, and thirty-two candidates for Electors. 2. Candidate for Congress. 3. Candidate for State Senator (where such official is to be elected). 4. Candidate or candidates for Representative. 5. Candidate for Judge (where such official is to be elected). 6. County candidates. To vote the full Republican ticket, a cross must be made for each of these groups. A SINGLE CROSS AT THE TOP OF THE TICKET SIMPLY VOTES FOR THE STATE TICKET, or those in the first group. Such a ballot would not be counted for the candidates for Congress, State Senator, &c. [In the city and county of Philadelphia separate conventions are held to nominate the several candidates on the county ticket. For each county office, therefore, there is a separate group on the official ballot. In the other counties, however, where the same convention nominates ALL THE COUNTY CANDIDATES, the latter are included in a single group. In other words, the number of Republican certificates of nomination determine the number of Republican groups.—Section 14.]

c. If the voter desires he can make a cross mark in the square opposite and to the RIGHT of each of the candidates for EACH office to be filled in the Republican column, and his vote will be counted as one vote for each candidate so marked.

d. If the voter adopts the plan of marking a cross to the RIGHT of each candidate he should be careful not to mark a name, as a name not [illegible] would not be counted.

How to Vote a Straight Ticket.

e. The simple method, where the voter desires to vote the "straight" or whole ticket, is to place a cross mark to the RIGHT of the party name at the head or top of each group in the Republican column. The only difficulties in the use of the new ballot being those which arise from an attempt to vote a mixed or "scratched" ticket, Republican voters are cautioned against voting any but a straight ticket (except for good cause, and then only after careful instructions), as to do so is attended with danger that the entire ballot may be invalidated.

f. Where a Democrat desires to vote for a candidate on the Republican ticket, say for Representative in the General Assembly, he can put an X at the head of each group in the Democratic column, except the Representative group, and if there are, say, two Representatives to be elected, he can put an X opposite the name of one Representative nominee in the Democratic group, and another X opposite the name of one Representative nominee in the Republican group. In other words, so far as he votes a straight ticket he MARKS THE GROUPS, and where he desires to "cut" his ticket he MARKS THE NAMES of the NOMINEES.

g. Crosses must be marked in the APPROPRIATE MARGIN OR PLACE ONLY, and always at the RIGHT HAND SIDE of the party column.

h. If a voter marks MORE NAMES than there are persons to be elected to an office his vote shall not be counted FOR SUCH OFFICE.

FOR EXAMPLE.—The voter marks a cross to the right of the first group in the Republican column. This mark would indicate one vote for EACH and EVERY NAME printed in that group, to wit, THIRTY-TWO CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS, TWO CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS-AT-LARGE, AND ONE CANDIDATE FOR JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT. This year two congressmen-at-large are to be elected. If the voter, after having placed a cross mark at the top of the group and to the right of the word "Republican," should desire to vote for the Democratic candidate for that office and should place a cross mark opposite and to the right of each of their names, his vote for congressman-at-large would not be counted for either party, because he would by so marking vote for FOUR instead of TWO candidates.

i. The voter MUST NOT CROSS OUT ANY NAMES upon the ticket, NOR COVER A NAME WITH A "STICKER" OR "PASTER," except in the case referred to in the next section.

j. When a candidate has died or withdrawn, and a substituted nomination is made after the ballots are printed, the new name will be printed upon a "sticker," which should be pasted OVER to cover the name of the deceased or withdrawn candidate. The voter should, in placing the "sticker" over the name of the candidate so deceased or withdrawn, use GREAT CARE so as not to cover MORE THAN the ONE NAME. Under no other circumstances can a "sticker" be pasted over a name, or be placed in the Republican column.

k. Before leaving the voting shelf or compartment the VOTER MUST fold his ballot without displaying the marks made by him, in the SAME WAY it was folded when handed to him by the ELECTION OFFICER, and keep it folded until he has voted.

l. After leaving the voting shelf, and before leaving the enclosed space, he shall give his ballot to the election officer in charge of the ballot box.

m. This officer, WITHOUT UNFOLDING the ballot, shall NUMBER IT in the right hand upper corner of the back of the ballot, immediately to the left of the folding line, and then shall fold the corner so as to cover the number, and paste it down so that the number cannot be seen and deposit it in the ballot box.

n. The voter may make a memorandum of the number of his own ballot.

o. No voter, not an election officer, shall be allowed to re-enter the enclosed space after he has once left it, except to give help, as hereinbefore stated.

VII.

PENAL OFFENSES.

Violations of Provisions of the Act That Are Punishable.

1. Allowing the ballot to be seen, with APPARENT intention of showing marks.
2. Casting, or attempting to cast, an unofficial ballot, or one improperly obtained.
3. Interfering with voters.
4. Inducing voters to show ballots.
5. Uncovering numbers.
6. Defacing, destroying, or removing official lists of candidates, cards of instruction, specimen ballots, or supplies for marking.
7. Hindering voters.
8. Filing false certificates, papers, or letters.
9. Signing nomination papers when not qualified.
10. Forging indorsements to ballots.
11. Destroying, defacing, or delaying the delivery of ballots.
12. Willful or negligent non-performance or misperformance of official duty.
13. Willful misfeasance of printers of ballots.
14. Appropriation or improper disposition of ballots by printers.
15. Having ballots in possession, other than sample, outside of voting room.
16. Counterfeiting official ballots or having counterfeits in possession. This section does not apply to sample ballots.
17. Violating any provision of the act.

Shotguns and Rope in Alabama.

The Kolb Democratic party of Alabama has run out an electoral ticket of its own in opposition to the Jones Democratic party. This insures the state against Cleveland, since the Jones Democratic party intends this time to see that it has a fair count, even though it requires shotguns and splices of rope to obtain it.

Philadelphia Republicans United.

While there are two separate and distinct Democratic parties in Philadelphia, each having a city committee and machine of its own, there is but one Republican party, and it is harmonious, enthusiastic and triumphant. In 1888 Philadelphia gave Harrison but 14,000 majority. In 1892 it will give him nearer 80,000.

They Are Against Cleveland.

Farmer Cockrell, of Illinois, at a reception given by the Cook county (Chicago) Democracy, said in the course of an address: "Now, on behalf of 4,000,000 farmers, I wish to warn you that you cannot make Grover Cleveland the next president of the United States." And the man the corner said "Amen."

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful Cough and turning into a Fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at Frank R. Foster's drugstore.

L. ROGERS, Chairman

PRESIDENT LINCOLN vetoed one pension bill, Johnson 21, Grant, during his two terms, 35, Hayes 13, Garfield, none, Arthur 4, Cleveland 324, Harrison none. Comrades, what do you think of that record?

ONE of the most powerful speeches ever delivered in this county was that of Hon. C. W. Stone in the opera house at Port Allegany on Monday evening of this week. His argument in favor of protection was unanswerable.

THE Republican meetings which have been held the past week around the county have been well attended and much interest has been shown by the electors in the issues discussed. These meetings cannot fail to be productive of much good for the Republican cause.

AT no past time was labor so generally employed and so well paid. In all directions manufacturing industries are active and the prosperity of the people is manifested in the volume of trade, the increase of savings banks deposits, the paying off of farm mortgages, and the steady progress of improvements. To-day the United States of all the countries of the world is the most prosperous. In Europe, in England more especially, doubt and anxious forebodings as to the business and industrial future prevail. Here we see only buoyancy and hopefulness.—N. Y. Sun.

THE 48th DISTRICT.

Having been driven by the decision of the Supreme Court to admit that Potter county is a part of the 48th Judicial district, and that Judge Olmsted resides in his district, the friends of Mr. McClure are now trying to induce republicans to vote for him on the ground that if Judge Olmsted shall be re-elected, McKean county will be left without a resident law judge at the expiration of Judge Morrison's term, on the first Monday of January, 1898. The foregoing argument having been met by the fact that there will be a new judicial apportionment long before 1898, and that McKean county will undoubtedly be erected into a district by itself, and thus have a right to elect a resident of the county as president judge to succeed Judge Morrison, some fertile minded persons have started the theory that McKean may not have 40,000 inhabitants at the date of the next judicial apportionment, and thus could not be made a separate district. Let us examine this question a moment and see how much there is in it.

By the census of 1890 McKean county had 46,863 inhabitants, and there cannot be another census on which to base an apportionment until 1900, so that any apportionment made prior to 1900 must be based upon the population of 46,863 for McKean county. In addition to this no well informed person in this county can truthfully assert that our population is not greater now than it was in 1890, and we firmly believe that the census of 1900 will show as great an increase in population from 1890 as the latter did over 1880, which was [illegible].

A party must be hard pressed when its leaders will try to persuade the republican voters of McKean that her population will fall below 40,000 in the next ten years.

We now predict that the census of 1900 will show this county to have a population of about [illegible], and that the next legislature will make McKean county a separate district, and the voters thereof will elect the successor to Judge Morrison without the aid of Potter or any other county.

And we further predict that on the 8th day of November next, Judge Olmstead will carry his district by not less than 2000 majority over J. M. McClure.

FREE TRADE VS. AMERICAN TIN.

The little medal of American tin plate entitled "Harrison-Reid and Protection, 1892," had been largely used for distribution among school children of the city of New York until last week, when the free trade democratic board of Education of this city became greatly alarmed lest some of the democratic parents of the children should learn through the little ones of the benefits of the protective policy. Quickly the police board ordered that this distribution, which was strictly within the law, should be stopped and a representative of the League distributing medals to the school children after they had left the school room and were on their way home was ordered to stop under penalty of arrest.

We trust that every protection newspaper in this country will let its readers know of this attempt to prevent the distribution of wholesome matter touching the principles of protection. As a result, however, of the publicity in New York city, the school children are taking it into their own hands and every day besiege the League rooms for quantities of the tin plate medals for distribution.

We admit that it may not be pleasant for a democratic father to have his child come home [illegible] and asking what it means, but this is the very purpose of the distribution. It is our idea that if the children in the homes can bring the subject to the attention of parents great good will result. The school children of New York city will receive these medals, notwithstanding the attempts of the free trade tribe greatly to prevent it.—American Economist.

JUDGE OLMSTED.

Some demagogue has been circulating the story that Judge Olmsted is too old to be re-elected Judge, and that his purpose is to get elected and then retire on a pension. There is no such thing as a pension for a Judge in Pennsylvania, all he gets is his salary while he serves, and the moment he resigns or ceases to serve as Judge his salary and all allowances cease.

In addition to this it is a frivolous proposition that a man of 64 years of age with as great mental vigor as any man in the 48th district, is too old for Judge. Gladstone at 83 has just undertaken the control of the government of one of the greatest nations of ancient or modern times.

Pennsylvania now has several judges much older than Judge Olmsted, and there are several lawyers in active practice in this and other states, who are over 80 years of age. We presume over one third of the Judges in Pennsylvania are older than Judge Olmsted.

The people of this district should be glad to secure the experience and high character and judicial ability of Judge Olmsted. He is recognized by the Judges and lawyers of the state as one the ablest and best judges now on the bench. Republicans of McKean, ponder well before you vote against him.

FARMERS AND THE TARIFF.

The farmers of this country have flourished wonderfully under protection and reciprocity. The American Economist has been making some comparisons between 1880 and 1891 which shows the following results.

1. Increased our exports of [illegible]
2. Exported [illegible] more of beef products
3. Exported [illegible] more live cattle
4. Exported [illegible] more of cereals, [illegible]
5. Wheat [illegible]
6. Exported [illegible]
7. Exported [illegible] more [illegible]
8. Exported [illegible] more fruits and nuts
9. Exported [illegible] more oil cake and meal
10. We have increased the foreign sale of our agricultural products by [illegible]

Besides this vast foreign trade, there is the great home market, made possible by diversified industries and armies of well-paid wage earners. No tiller of the soil on earth is as well off as the American farmer. Will he vote for the abolition of reciprocity and for the impoverishment of his customers at home? Not until he parts with his senses. He is for Republican principles and Republican politics this year. —Rochester Express.

TO MARK A BALLOT.

AN INTERESTING OBJECT LESSON FOR DEMOCRATIC VOTERS.

Plain Directions as to the Proper Method of Marking the New Official Ballot in Order to Vote a Straight Party Ticket or to Split the Ticket.

Elsewhere in this paper will be found a facsimile of the new official ballot that will be used on Nov. 8, marked in accordance with the recent opinion of Attorney General Hensel on this point. It should be noted that the names that appear in this sample ballot are not those of the candidates to be voted for, the names having been filled in at random to give the appearance of the real ballot.

A little study of this form will show that the new ballot is not nearly so intricate and formidable as it appears at first sight.

To vote the straight Democratic ticket, without any scratching, the voter marks his mark as shown [illegible]

Let the hired Yankees howl. We are of the South and for the south. Some of the northern papers are howling about the positive fact that Grover Cleveland hired a cheap man to represent him when the north pillaged and plundered and burned and ravished the south. There could not be a better recommendation. Those scamps of the north who went into the war went in for thirteen dollars a month with the explicit understanding that they should steal all that was in sight. Grover Cleveland knew that the country would need his services in 1884 and again in 1892, and he did not propose to have his body filled with lead in order to give a Yankee a chance to pick his pockets after he had been killed. He simply did a good business job, as he did when he slapped the dirty beggars, called pensioners, in the face. Why should he, a statesman and a man of his intellect, take the chance of war, when he could hire a cheap fellow to represent him? There is no reason. The Globe regards that as one of the best things Cleveland ever did. If Cleveland had fought he would have been lowered in the estimation of the south. He did not propose to use his skill in killing the boys of the south. The solid south owes a debt of gratitude to Grover Cleveland."

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

From our own correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 17th, 1892.

In a few days over three weeks from to-day the American people will have made their choice of a ruler for the coming four years and presumably everybody has concluded how individual votes are to be cast on November 8th, so that all that can be now said or written will have but little effect in changing intended votes of voters. The tables of probabilities have been compiled from the most trustworthy sources, and taking this information as correct, the republicans of the country have no reason to fear. Harrison & Reid will be elected. Predictions as to results have not been made until now and only at this time, because everything points to the correctness of the claim that the standard bearers of the republicans will be elected. The [illegible] Farmers' Alliance and the People's Party will not, according to reports at Republican National headquarters, figure as successful additions to the democratic circus, and at democratic headquarters of the National Committee the disappointment is [illegible] in more ways than one.

The struggle for the possession of the electoral vote of New York state is [illegible] and the democracy are not so certain now of the vote in this city and Brooklyn, as was manifested several weeks ago and each day the vote grows more uncertain. To provide, however, against certain contingencies, democracy has organized a system of colonization and proposed repeating that will swell the vote for Cleveland, but Dave Martin of Philadelphia, who is assisting at republican headquarters, has caught on to the colonization scheme and as a result the thugs of that wicked city have threatened Mr. Martin with all sorts of dire vengeance, and threats of expulsion across the state borders, but the valiant Philadelphian keeps right on exposing the wicked plans of work of New York democracy and it is [illegible] that these two wicked cities will be swept out by the [illegible] of honest [illegible] voters in that portion of the state west of the Harlem river, and this result means that Harrison and Reid will get the electoral vote of New York.

It was done with the reminder, however, that this must be the last.

[illegible] Columbus day, Oct. 21, celebration in Harrisburg, bids fair to be an imposing affair. During the day time there will be an industrial display, in which elaborate floats will show what the United States has accomplished in four hundred years. Neighboring towns will contribute their share to the success of the parade.

ALGROFT

THERE may be here and there a Democratic veteran who will vote against their comrade, David Howells, for Treasurer, but the Republican veterans will to a man support him. He deserves the vote of every Republican of McKean county, whether a veteran or not.

LITERARY NOTES.

ONE OF WHITTIER'S LAST POEMS.

The three-page poem by John G. Whittier, which will appear in the November St. Nicholas Magazine, commemorates the visit of a party of young girls to the poet's home. It contains the following lines which have a peculiar significance now that the good Quaker poet has passed away.

"I would not if I could repeat
A life which still is good and sweet;
I keep in age, as in my prime,
A not uncheerful step with time,
And, grateful for all blessings sent,
I go the common way, content
[illegible]
[illegible]
For what must be I calmly wait,
And trust the path I cannot see—
That God is good sufficeth me.
And when at last upon life's play
The curtain falls, I only pray
That hope may lose itself in truth,
And age in Heaven's immortal youth,
And all our loves and longings prove
The foretaste of diviner love."

THE BIBLE AND SCIENCE.

The Century Magazine will take up the bible and science controversy. In the November Century, Professor Charles W. Shields, of Princeton answers the question "Does the Bible contain Scientific Errors?" with an emphatic no. He says: "Literary and textual obscurities there may be upon the surface of Holy Writ, like spots upon the sun, or rather like motes in the eye, but scientific error in its divine purport would be the sun itself extinguished at noon. Such a Bible God [illegible] this epoch."

Professor Shields's article will be followed by one on the December Century on "The Effect of Scientific Study upon Religious Beliefs."

A PROMINENT convert supposed to have been captured by the Democracy is Mr. Wayne McVeagh. It is announced that Mr. McVeagh will write a letter which will turn over instantly the eighty or ninety thousand republican majority in Pennsylvania. Mr. McVeagh is a keen critic. He has great legal adroitness and an individuality which shines in a field of controversy. He has a high opinion of no one except himself. He was always at odds with his father-in-law, Simon Cameron and is a balky horse in any political team to which he may be engaged to pull. He has carried this to the extent of never by any possibility agreeing with any member of the Cameron family with which he is by marriage allied. Of course this is a proof of his independence. He was Attorney General in Garfield's cabinet, and he used to poke fun at all of his associates. Any correspondent in Washington who wanted a story reflecting on the Administration, who wanted to learn anything derogatory to Mr. Blaine or the latest anecdote reflecting on the abilities of Robert Lincoln, the youthful Secretary of War, could get all this by a call upon Attorney General McVeagh. Loyalty seemed to be no part of his nature.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

CASH AND ONE PRICE

BUFFALO, Oct. 19, 1892.

It may please you to know that the September sale gained greatly in dollars. How many we don't tell; but you can get some notion to how we grow by the statement that it was the biggest month's trade ever known in history of this store. It surpassed all precedent.

The business increase during September and every month so far has surprised us, and surprised a great many other people. What did it? It was not words—others were more verbose! It was not advertising—others had doubled the space. Such causes are well enough in their way, but there is other reasons why trade seeks our counters. Perfectly fair dealing, the most liberal assortments, the lowest prices every day in the year, are the irresistible magnets that attract the crowd. You can't have one without the other and stand a chance of success. You may call them what you please so long as we know we have them in practical every-day work.

Years of conscientious work have made this store a synonym of good quality, no matter what they purchase. We've hammered away at that idea, pounding out the one plain truth "we know what we see, we know the quality's right and the price reasonable."

We're working to create ground for confidence, trying to make ourselves and our methods known, instead of being willing to escape responsibility with observation. Success marks the satisfaction we aimed for and nerve ambition to still greater achievement.

Out-of-town people who can't get to the store can shop by mail and take every advantage of goods and prices. It shan't be our fault if you don't save money with anything you buy. Nothing easier!

The groom is a stranger here at least is a stranger to us but is a gentleman in appearance, and speaks the language as if he has the address of fine culture. The bride is well known to very many in this county and has the respect and esteem of all who know her and every many will join the Courier's good wishes that the pair may have a pleasant home and happiness be where love and affection will ever be the abiding guests.

They will make their future home in Smethport and the people of that place may be congratulated upon this addition to their number which we are the losers

A Successful Meeting

The teachers institute just closed was the largest and most enthusiastic gathering of teachers ever held in the county. Never before did the teachers so freely attend the different sessions.

The instructors proved themselves the right persons in their places and their results will no doubt result in better and more intelligent work in the [illegible] of the county

The evening sessions were better attended than ever before and those who attended were amply repaid. The Schuman Concert Company on Tuesday night scored a success by giving us a strictly first-class entertainment. Although they have been organized but a short time, they have proven themselves worthy a place in the first rank. A. M. Hammers in his Realistic Rambles was all that could be desired. His superb pictures handled without fault and described in a voice that captivated the listeners gave us two evenings that we shall not soon forget

On Thursday the committee on permanent certificates was elected. It consists of G. P. Eckels, Duke Centre; T. J. Driscoll, Lewis Run; Geo. Valding, Derrick City; Mrs. A. L. McCain, Bradford and B. L. Cooper Derrick City. They hold their examination in Bradford on the first Saturday in June.

The McKean County Teachers Association will meet on the last Thursday, Friday and Saturday in February, at a place to be decided and announced later by a committee appointed for that purpose

The Institute closed on Friday and the teachers left town well pleased with their annual meeting

W. [illegible] played on Wednesday last Emmett W. Hoy the only deaf and dumb ball player in the National League. Mr. Hoy who is a brother of Mrs. H. F. Helms, of this place, played centre field for Washington this year [illegible] with the Buffalo team [illegible] for the best playing in the [illegible]. Mr. Hoy is an educated man and takes a great pride in his record as a professional player.

Death of Arthur Frentis

[illegible] Frentis [illegible] township, this county, was one of the early and industrious band of people from Maine. Among the number was Arthur Frentis, who died at his home in Frentisdale on Tuesday morning last at half past three o'clock aged 81 years. Mr. Frentis has long been regarded one of the leading citizens of that section of the county. He was a [illegible] man, an earnest devoted member of the Congregational Church and was held in high esteem by all. [illegible] William and [illegible] Mrs. Spiller [illegible] in the western country [illegible] the deceased [illegible] behind a [illegible] to mourn [illegible].

The funeral services were held at the house [illegible] Wednesday [illegible] at 10 o'clock and were largely attended by the people of that vicinity. They were conducted by [illegible] of Duke Centre

Board of Trade

All citizens interested in Bradford's future are asked to aid the city's growth and to participate in its coming prosperity, and are given a privilege of thinking how best to accomplish this act. [illegible] this shall not be abridged, and from the fruitful chambers of the brain we hope some one may spin the web of a public policy that will allow the crime of contentment to [illegible]. But when this is accomplished and Bradford's progress written in [illegible] character on cloth of gold, the one fact that will stand out in boldest relief on the crowded pages of memory will be a certain store that always sold bargains. Yet you are not asked to [illegible] the deep indelible engravings of the [illegible] to read from the shining tablets, [illegible] mouldings of the future [illegible] done it now here? You may have [illegible] of it. It blazes in the white light of to-day. It is the Racket Store. It [illegible] day and night with weapons of [illegible] they seeking diligently that knowledge [illegible] constitutes power. It has forced its way through the ebb and flow of an [illegible] crowd to the front rank of dry goods, wall paper and crockery lines. [illegible] now with the assurance of a high [illegible] that beholds the destiny of [illegible] transmitted into history with [illegible] the confidence that a conqueror feels who [illegible] his throne and reviews his former triumphs, it advances for your trade in [illegible]. That shoes are and have been an item of considerable expense to our citizens scarcely needs mention, that the Racket Store has already had the satisfaction of [illegible] the expense to its many customers [illegible] never before, perhaps never again, will shoes [illegible], will the people see them [illegible] they will find them at the Racket store on Kennedy street for the next few days. Eight thousand fifty (8,050) pairs of manufacturer's samples, bought in a lump from a leading shoe factory in Lynn, Mass. Each particular shoe in the selection of these samples, is chosen by graduated experts for its individual perfection in material, fabrication and everything that goes to constitute a perfect shoe. Every pair of them will be sold to our customers and none of them will be bundled off to Gentiles, but every member of the Board of Trade, all others, citizens of this broad land, whether by birth or adoption, will be presented with one or more pair on payment of stated price. This is the incense of a willing sacrifice for our city's secular progress and commercial prosperity

St. Luke's Church.

Divine services on Sunday Oct. 23, at 10 and 11:30 a. m., and at 7:30 p. m. At All Saints, East Smethport at 3 p. m. On Friday evening at 7:30

There is no one of any one suffering with the cholera when Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy can be procured. It gives relief in a few minutes and cures in a short time. I have tried it and know.—W. H. Clinton, Helmetta, N. J. The epidemic at Helmetta was at first said to be cholera, but subsequent investigation proved it to be a violent form of dysentery, almost as dangerous as cholera. This remedy was used with great success. For sale by A. B. Armstrong, Druggist.

ELDRED.

F. J. Cobb of this place, is quite low with kidney trouble.

The Democratic County committee met at the St. Elmo, Wednesday.

James Brown and family of Ceres, were visiting friends in town Saturday.

George Dehling, that dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, from Potter county, was in Eldred Saturday

The Misses Carrie and May Smith, of Olean, were visiting their father, H. E. Smith, at this place Tuesday

A large number of Eldred's faithful attended the Democratic demonstration at Duke Centre, Friday evening.

A man with a phonograph pleased a large crowd in town Tuesday, and reaped a big reward in nickels.

E. E. Chase and Daniel Crowley are improving their residences on Main street in a substantial manner.

This week will see A. T. Darden's new brick nearly completed, that is the brick work, and a meat [illegible] building is taken.

Mrs. C. M. Coleman it is said will close her restaurant near the depot, and remove to the new city of Depew near Buffalo.

W. K. Sterns for a number of years one of the landmarks of Sartwell Hollow, has disposed of his farm there and removed to Olean.

The jovial editor of the MINER was in town a short time Tuesday while on his way to Ceres to take part in the gathering of the clans.

F. J. [illegible] one of the old time pumpers of the Indian Creek territory but who was laid off last spring was visiting old friends here this week

E. W. Dolme and wife who have been spending the summer in Wisconsin, returned to Eldred last week. Mr. Dolme will go to Buffalo to undergo treatment for bronchial troubles.

W. H. Bradley who has been for many years a well known dispenser of liquid enjoyment at Eldred has accepted a similar position with one of the Jamestown hotels. Billy will be missed by a host of friends.

E. A. Lowden, who is now on the road as general agent for a big book house of Philadelphia, came this way on his route long enough to pass Sunday with his family. He reports good success in his new calling.

W. F. Barr and wife, accompanied by Miss Franc Douglas departed Monday for Hamburg where they will witness the marriage of a cousin of that gentleman. Miss Douglass will act as one of the bridesmaids

A. F. Eastman the popular and affable candidate on the Republican ticket for State Senator of this district, was in town Monday on his way to look after affairs a little in Potter county. He will be in his district in this section Nov 4.

The last base ball game of the season was played on the Eldred grounds last Friday. Our several nine on account of their record got to thinking they were some pumpkins, so they tried on the nine from Port Allegany. The score was 19 to 6 in favor of the latter nine. We can't tell what the score would have been if the umpire had lasted to score on.

Large bills have been issued announcing a rousing Republican meet in Eldred Saturday evening at the Wescott opera house. The Hon. Marriott Brosius of Lancaster and our own C. W. Stone, will be the speakers which insures an ovation that the meeting will be a most successful one. Both speakers are well and favorably known.

The Republicans of Coryville, got ready in earnest last Saturday and raised a fine 70 foot pole, that well becomes the little hamlet. It is decorated on top with a big sheet of American tin. An enthusiastic crowd listened to able speeches by R. W. Smith of Port Allegany and candidates Burdick and North of Bradford. Chairman Rogers showed them how he used to handle the shovel, but it was thought Editor Lasell was a trifle more graceful in its use

Everybody in this section knows the Hugh [illegible] of the past twenty years, but in him they would hardly recognize the person of that name now a graduate of the [illegible] at this place. Since his graduation he has rather been laying low for something good in the shape of a steady job to turn up and [illegible] this week when a brother came up from the lower country and gave him the foremanship of a big oil lease near Friendship. He has gone to take charge of it.

Aside from the celebration by the Eldred Graded school and the Catholics, Eldred will not observe Columbus Day very generally. The best effort will probably be put forth, by St. Raphael's congregation who are in need of funds and who will try to replenish the amount necessary to build their parochial residence by holding a festival and lunch which will be given at the Wescott opera house. They always give the best time for the money and this will be no exception.

PORT ALLEGANY

[illegible] Layman has been [illegible] at Washington D. C.

[illegible] of [illegible] spent Sunday in this place with friends

[illegible] Johnson, of Bradford visited this place last Monday

[illegible] Blackman of Coudersport was in town on business last Friday

Rev. Dean attended the Baptist Association meeting at Franklin Pa. last week and there were no services in the Baptist Church last Sunday

Mrs. Brown formerly of this place now of Buffalo spent last week in this place with friends.

J. W. McElroy and Editor Rogers attended the Republican rally at the opera house last Monday evening

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Wallace of [illegible], Pa. are visiting this week with Mrs. Wallace's parents Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Garthwait

[illegible] fell from his delivery wagon last Friday and was considerably lamed. It has always been the opinion of the people here that he never got full

The old [illegible] residence, now belonging to Elias Shults on Lillibridge creek, burned last Saturday morning at three o'clock. There were no one living in the house and it probably was the work of tramps. The Star Hose Company responded to the alarm but their courage failed them as soon as they discovered the location of the fire.

The campaign was opened in this borough last Monday evening by the Republicans at the opera house. Hon. C. W. Stone was the principal speaker and a very respectable gathering of Republicans listened to the speaking. The Democrats all went out. The meeting was called to order and R. W. Smith was made chairman. W. E. Burdick candidate for Representative was the first speaker and he did very nicely in explaining the new ballot and the manner of voting it. H. H. North next took the floor and by his manly remarks, explained to the people why he was a republican. A. F. Eastman, candidate for State Senator thanked the people for what they had done for him in the past, and that if he was elected to the Senate he would try and represent his people well, and we think he will. Hon. C. W. Stone spoke at length upon the issue of the day and it was a pity that our democratic friends were not there to hear his arguments. In his remarks he said a democratic Congressman said that the democratic party this fall was handicapped by the prosperity of the country. Mr. Stone's speech was just what the Republicans here wanted and at the polls next month, Port Allegany will do better than she has ever done before [illegible]GROVE.

R. P. L. Co. are having a good many of their wells re-rodded this fall Sheriff Grubb was driving about in this locality on Monday of this week.

The proceeds of the oyster supper last Friday evening for the benefit of Rev. Mynard, amounted to about $23.

Mrs. Ella Cochran of Bradford, is caring for Mrs. W. W. Trace a sister who has been quite ill the past two weeks.

Mrs. Henry Gallup, of Smethport, accompanied by Mrs. Florence Gallup, drove to Norwich and stayed until Monday

Our teachers report a very pleasant time at the County Institute, and also an interesting and practical course of instruction.

Everybody is so quite about election that we almost think the new system of balloting is having a deleterious effect on the voters here

Messrs. N. C. Gailey, Henry Evans and F. R. [illegible] members of the Norwich School Board of Directors, attended the County Institute last Thursday

A number of our young men were trying to lift a weight with their teeth in Anderson's store, one day last week. The result was, that John Greeley, Jr. had two teeth extracted and two loosened by the weight falling unexpectedly.

The teachers in this township will observe Columbus Day by having exercises at their various school houses. In the evening an entertainment will be given in the Union Church, commencing at 8:00 o'clock. This will consist of declamations, songs and dialogues. The Crosby band is expected to be in attendance. At the close of these exercises, the ladies will serve cake and coffee in M. L. Bartlett's hall. Tickets admit to both places. The prices of admission are for children under 12 years of age, 10 cents, for adults 15 cents. The proceeds will be used to purchase flags to be placed on the school house.

MT. ALTON

M. Ryan, Sr., has been quite ill the past week.

Misses Bell and Olivia Quinn, Bradford, are visiting Mrs. Ed Cooney

Miss Mary Hardie, of Bradford, spent Saturday with relatives here.

Alonzo Kessler is having quite a serious time with cold and neuralgia.

Mrs. Garrabrant, of Mt. Jewett, spent several days in our town last week.

Mrs. Thos. Johnson, of Smethport, is visiting her mother, Mrs. F. Wagner

Leo. Kessler started for Erie last Monday where he will attend school this winter

Miss Mary McGraw, who has been ill with typhoid fever the past two weeks, was able to attend church Sunday

Miss Nora Lyons, of Bradford and Miss Lucy Grumley, of Wellsville, N. Y., are visiting friends in this place.

John Hafner took a trip over the hills to Maple Grove last Sunday. Mr. Hafner is a hustler after the tax-payers and there is no escaping him.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kreuger started for Meadville Monday to visit the I. O. O. F. Orphans Home, which is situated there. Mr. Kreuger was sent as a delegate by the Subordinate Lodge here and the Rebecca's decided they would like a chance to go and see the institution, so they voted to have Mr. Kreuger, accompanied by his estimable wife, which vote was unanimously carried Tuesday morning and a [illegible] friends in Kendall Creek, before going to their new home.

Rev. [illegible] preached his first sermon to us last Sunday evening, it was an able discourse and was listened to by a good sized audience before the close, but there seemed to be a misunderstanding as to the hour it commenced and the majority were a half or three-quarters of an hour late. Next Sabbath there will be preaching at 10:30 a. m., and 7:30 p. m. Come on time.

KANE.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Pete Peterson on Monday, a daughter.

Carpenter [illegible], who cut his knee badly, with an adze, has gone to work.

Geo. W. Kinnear has accepted a position with the Dr. Jacob's Gold Cure Co.

The Dr. Jacob's Gold Cure is [illegible] in Kane, and all around business is the same.

The non-arrival of the iron girders has caused considerable delay in the Kane-Kemp block

Lewis Valeen, of Wetmore, who has been in hospital with an injured knee, went home Monday

A. Erickson, was being treated for phlebitus, has gone to his home at West Kane, convalescent.

The continued fine warm weather has brought out many snakes. The Democrats are even showing signs of life.

Fred Brown, employed as brakeman on James Bros. R. R., at Brookston, had a thumb smashed, coupling cars, is at the hospital.

The streets in the west side of the borough are too rough for paraders. A single pedestrian is in danger at night after leaving Elk avenue.

Joshua Davis was seen driving out of town on Tuesday with two canthooks in his carriage. All politicians who do not wish to be turned over should look out for Joshua and the cant hooks.

It's a notorious fact, but not generally known, that Uncle Lem Davis was discovered one day last week in Elk county electioneering for [illegible] Howells. Lem claims he was looking for Nels Perkins who is in the region Burgess Orr complains that his scholars are not apt in learning how to vote the ballot. Why of course not, they are Democrats. They persist in making an x opposite all the Republican and Prohibition candidates. It's so natural isn't it.

Anyone of the candidates for office who will guarantee a little work repairing the streets on the west side will receive the votes of all irrespective party tied in that locality. Some work must be done on the streets, so the voters can get out to the polling place of the first ward

A teamster named Pasala who is not favorable to the Gold Cure, on Monday took his shots in the old style way of usage and finally got boisterous, when Policeman Patch escorted him to the lockup, where he remained until Tuesday when a kindhearted man paid his fine

Rooney and Daley of Smethport have purchased of O. L. Davis & Bros. the red front meat market. This place has an established trade second to only one in Kane. From what we can learn of Messrs. Rooney and Daley they are men of business tact, sufficient to hold the present and increase the trade

If there ever was a pleasant and affable in Kane its D. Howells and it is growing on him each day. The other day, so report has it, coming however from Democratic source, that Davy made one of his politest bows to the gentleman dummy in front of the New York Bazaar, and that A. J. Weiner returned the salutation

Dr. Thos. L. Kane, of this place and Miss Virginia Wright, of Bay City Michigan were married on the 11th inst, in St. Paul's Church at the latter place. The happy pair are expected to reach Kane the latter part of this week when the particulars can be given. In the meantime congratulations from the Doctor's many friends, flow as free as water

M. E. Cochran, brakeman on Conductor Davy Haupt's train 22, had his hand badly crushed in Kane yard on Monday while coupling. He was taken to the Woodside Hospital where Dr. Evan Kane dressed the injured hand. The doctor thinks none of the fingers, or any portion of the hand will require amputation

Timothy O'Shea, the five year old son of John O'Shea's had several pieces of diseased bone removed from his lower jaw on Monday by Dr's Kane and Wright, assisted by Miss H. J. Hays, Dr. Evan Kane's surgical assistant. The operation was a difficult one, from the fact that three weeks ago a portion of the bone had been removed from the inside of the little sufferers mouth

CERES.

Mrs. H. W. Eaton of Bolivar, N. Y. visited in town Saturday

Capt Kinney of Horse Run was in town on business Friday

Dr. Walter Burdick of Genesee was in town professionally Monday

Will Cowles, of Bolivar accompanied by his cousin Miss Mary Cowels, of Wellsville N. Y. were calling on friends in town Sunday

Mrs. W. H. Evans and son Edward formerly of this place, who have been visiting in Coudersport passed a few days in this place last week enroute for Jamestown.

Yesterday a young and spirited team was left standing unhitched on Lillon street. They felt inclined to play a little, so away they went over the bridge and up Pennsylvania street, where in front of Dr. Pierce's they veered from the street through the yard the wagon taking a corner form the house. They ran into the barn wrecking the doors. No serious damage was done, but its a wonder none were not hurt, for the yard and street are usually full of children at play

It may be Interesting to Know

That when excursion rates are made to Chicago for people who live in the East, to enable them to attend the World's Fair next year, it is contemplated by the western roads to also make excursion rates from Chicago to all principal business and tourists points in the West, Northwest and Southwest, so that those who desire to spend a few weeks among their friends in the Great West may have an opportunity of so doing without incurring much additional expense. It may be well to consider this subject in advance of actual time of starting, and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. Co., has issued maps and time tables and other instructive reading matter, which it will be glad to furnish free of expense upon application by postal card addressed to Jno. R. Pott, District Passenger Agt., Williamsport, Pa., or to Geo. H. Heafford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago Ill.

A Piano
SENT on trial
WE PAY FREIGHT
If you do not keep it.
We think you will keep it.
It pleases everybody.
It is an honest piano.
It is the WING Piano.

You may have a preference for some other make. Still you are a reasoning creature, and open to conviction, no doubt.

The question is too important to be settled without due thought. Years of satisfaction or of regret come with a piano. Does it wear well? The WING Piano does. "Look before you leap."

Whatever piano you buy, there are piano secrets you ought to know. Our free book tells them. Send a postal card for it. It may help you to buy a different piano. We take that risk. We also tell you the nearest dealer where you can see a WING Piano. It is worth looking at. So is the price. WING & SON, 245 Broadway, New York.

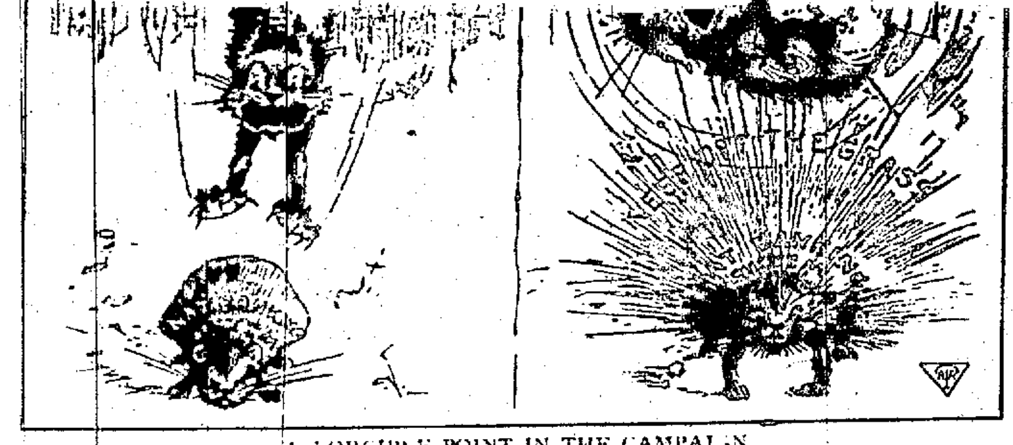
Only Millionaires Can Afford Them.

It is set up as a fact that it cost Senator Brice a tidy sum of money for the honor of being chairman of the Democratic national campaign committee. This accounts for the backwardness of prominent Democrats in coming forward as candidates for the honor. Democratic honors come high, and only millionaires can afford them. —Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

It All Depends.

The dread of negro domination does not appear to be active in the south when the negro votes the Democratic ticket. It is only when he votes the Republican ticket that the negro is esteemed to be a dangerous factor who should be terrorized, shot or counted out. —Watertown (N. Y.) Times.



A FORCIBLE POINT IN THE CAMPAIGN

THE FORM OF THE OFFICIAL BALLOT.

A Facsimile of it as properly marked by a voter intending to vote a STRAIGHT DEMOCRATIC ticket. This is not an official ballot and cannot be used in voting.

A Cross (X) marked in the square at the right of the party appellation at the head of a Group of Candidates indicates a vote for all the candidates in such group.

A Cross (X) marked in the square at the right of the Name of a Candidate indicates a vote for that candidate.

The reader should not forget that the Marks (X) which appear as shown below are not upon the ballot when it is taken by the voter, but indicate how he is to place the marks upon it in order to vote. The names given are not those of the candidates.

Try to Defeat Cleveland.

Because of the tail to his kite. The vice presidency is not an unimportant office, though it is often spoken of as if it were. Twice within the last twenty-eight years it has been found to be the most important office in the government—when Lincoln was assassinated in 1865, and again when the same fate ended Garfield's presidency in 1881. Nobody would have dreamed of putting Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, in nomination for the presidency. The Chicago convention would have laughed at the suggestion. Yet if you vote for Mr. Cleveland for president you must run the risk of seeing Adlai become an accidental president. That is too serious an accident to be risked.—New York Recorder.

A Wage Picture.

The late Mr. Grierson, of the Great Western railway, of England, collected statistics of the wages of railway labor in the principal countries of Europe. The range of wages in England was from thirty shillings, or $7.30 down to eighteen shillings, or $4.30 a week. If the Buffalo switchmen, who get 23 cents an hour, were to get their desired working day of ten hours, even without any advance in wages, they would make $13.80 in every week of six days.—New York Press.

His Dislike Is Natural.

It is natural that Cleveland should dislike the pensioners, recalling as they do their own part or the part of those on whom they depended in the struggle for the nation's life. It is natural that the one who evaded service in the war should regard with jealousy and animosity those who did their duty in the war. But that is no sound reason why a president of the United States should have given the soldiers' widows ridicule and contumely when they asked for bread.—Lawrence (Mass.) American.

Where Cleveland's Hopes Center.

If Mr. Cleveland is to be elected president it must be by the electoral votes of states whose citizens, were there a free ballot and fair count, would never sustain the Democratic party or its policy. The party which has just nominated Cleveland owes whatever chance it has of electing a president to its reckless disregard of the rights of Republican voters in southern states, under the pretense that negro supremacy would otherwise be the result.—Norristown (Pa.) Herald.

They'll "Vote Accordingly"—for Ben.

We agreed with Mr. Cleveland. The people prefer the free trade party to honestly declare for free trade rather than to masquerade as "tariff reformers" or make foolish statements about "a local issue." Now the people know what they may expect from the Democratic party and can vote accordingly.—Trenton Times.

STARTLING FACTS!

The American people are rapidly becoming a race of nervous wrecks, and the following suggests the best remedy: Alphonso Humphreys, of Butler, Pa., swears that when his son was speechless from St. Vitus dance, Dr. Miles' Great Restorative Nervine cured him. Mrs. J. R. Miller, of Valparaiso, and J. D. Taylor, of Logansport, Ind., each gained 20 pounds from taking it. Mrs. H. A. Gardner, of Vistula, Ind., was cured of 40 to 50 convulsions a day, and much headache, dizziness, backache, and nervous prostration, by one bottle. Daniel Evans, Brooklyn, Mich., says his daughter was cured of insanity of ten years' standing. Trial bottles and fine book of marvelous cures, FREE at druggists. This remedy contains no opiates.
